Overview of Priorities & Selections

Janet’s priorities are to find an affordable college in California or the West where her daughter Katheryn can attend as a major in the physical sciences (Chemistry or Physics). Katheryn’s daughter has excellent grades and test scores, and good rigor in her curriculum, so we picked universities that were a good match for her culturally and academically. This is an initial list which Katheryn and Janet can narrow based on their planned travel this summer.

Admission Factor Review and Recommendations

These are factors considered by some universities in their admissions process. For more information on which universities consider which factors, see the Admissions Factors section of the report:

Factor	Notes/Recommendations
Character and Personal Qualities	Katheryn has a track record of demonstrating great character through her work in the community and her involvement with school activities. One key is to emphasize this during the admissions process, for instance in her essays.
Academic GPA, Rigor of Curriculum, and Class Rank	Katheryn has taken a challenging curriculum that includes AP and Honors courses when available. She has not taken the most challenging course available always but on balance she has solid rigor and a good GPA. She has also taken college-level courses that will bolster her application. Her school does not provide class rank.
Standardized Test Scores	Katheryn’s SAT score is in the 94 th percentile of test takers, which is excellent, although maybe insufficient for the most selective universities in the nation. But she will do well in the process and find a great fit of college.
Extracurricular Activities/Talents	Katheryn’s extracurricular activities include working in the robotics club and on science-related activities. Her activities demonstrate passion for the work she’d like to do in college.

Community Service and Volunteer Work	Katheryn has been tutoring other students for some time now, which will help with her application. But she needs to bolster this area of her application to improve her odds at the most competitive universities.
Essays	This will be the area where Katheryn can most differentiate herself. Writing excellent essays that demonstrate character, resilience, and passion for science will set her application apart.
Special Factors (Alumni, First-Generation, Ethnicity)	Katheryn's application does not have any factors which will improve her odds
Residency	Katheryn's application to California colleges will be helped at some and hurt at some by her California residency. At out-of-state (OOS) colleges, her application will be helped by OOS status.
Recommendations	It's important Katheryn find two teachers who know her well and lock down her recommendations, so she can have excellent recommendations to accompany her application.
